

ANOTHER MURDER.

A Negro Supposed to Have Had Money Killed.

Suspicion Points to a Traveling Negro Doctor--Fordsville People Aroused.

Noble Poole, a negro, was found dead at his home in Fordsville Sunday, his skull crushed. He had been dead several days and the body had begun to decompose. Beside him lay a carpenter's hammer, evidently the article with which he had been murdered. The negro lived alone and it was only by accident that his body was found, even as early as it was, the house being at the edge of town, at a place where there was but little passing.

Poole was about fifty years old and one of the most highly respected negroes in Ohio county. He had lived an industrious life and was supposed to have amassed a considerable sum of money. There is no absolute knowledge that he had money in the house, further than that during a good many years of his life made considerable money, and had so far as is known, spent very little of it. He would never deposit his earnings in bank and his white friends often remonstrated against the foolishness of keeping large sums of money about his house.

He was a quietly disposed negro and nobody in Fordsville saw much of him except those with whom he had business. Recently he had not been very active and had kept close to his home. On election day it was noticed that he did not come to the polls to vote, and some remarks were made about it. It was regarded, however, as one of his peculiarities, and no investigation was made. No one remembers to have seen him at any time after the election and it is generally believed that he must have been murdered not later than Tuesday morning. The body was found Sunday by persons who went to his house to see him about some matter, otherwise the body might have remained undiscovered for weeks.

Some weeks ago a traveling negro doctor came to Fordsville and after being in town a day or two made Poole's house his stopping place. He came and went for some time, but has not been seen for several days. Suspicion attaches to him and all attempts to locate him since the murder was discovered has proved futile. His name is not known and it is doubtful if a sufficiently definite description can be given of him by those who saw him about town to secure his apprehension.

Whether or not the murderer secured any money is not known. A diligent search was instituted Sunday and discloses the fact that there is not now any money in the house. If Poole really kept his money there the murderer doubtless got possession of it. There is considerable doubt, however, as to whether it was not secreted in some other place. Be that as it may, it is practically certain that the sole motive of the murder was robbery. So far as is known he had not a single enemy.

A Corner's inquest was held Monday morning and a verdict returned that the negro was murdered by an unknown party. The Governor has been appealed to to offer a reward for the arrest of the murderer. This reward, if offered, will be supplemented by the citizens of Fordsville.

BABY MURDERED

And Buried in Garden Near Addison Found by Children Playing in Straw.

Cloverport, Ky., Nov. 16.—There has been no little excitement at Addison the past week over the discovery of the body of an infant buried in the garden at the home of Cy Merritt who is a tenant on the John Burks farm near Addison. The skull of the infant was crushed apparently by a blow with some kind of a blunt instrument.

A physician of this city, who examined the remains of the infant, states that it was undoubtedly born alive and that it had been buried about five or six days.

The body of the infant was found by some children. When discovered a strip of cloth was wrapped around it.

The infant was found in a small excavation, about a foot in depth and near a pile of straw. The children who found it were raking up the scattered straw in the garden for the purpose of burning it. Some straw had been thrown into the excavation with the loose earth and the loosening of the straw by the children led to the discovery. It is evident that the infant was buried at night and, in the dark, the straw was mixed with the loose earth through mistake.

Up until yesterday no arrest has been made in the affair. It is understood that an effort is being made, in a quiet manner, to find the guilty parties.

Galloway Wins.

In the Circuit Judgeship contest in the Bowling Green district the Court of Appeals reversed the decision of Special Judge Osborne, and ordered the petition of B. W. Bradburn to be dismissed. The contest was filed by Bradburn on the grounds of fraud. The Appellate Court holds that certain ballots had been tampered with after the election officers had certified to the returns which gave a majority for Galloway, and should have been admitted as evidence by the lower court.

THE SON OF EX- U. S. MINISTER TO ENGLAND

Commends Pe-ru-na to All Catarrh Sufferers.

Hon. Lewis E. Johnson is the son of the late Reverdy Johnson who was United States Senator from Maryland, also Attorney General under President Johnson, and United States Minister to England, and who was regarded as the greatest constitutional lawyer that ever lived.

In a recent letter from 1006 F St., N. W., Washington, D. C., Mr. Johnson says: "No one should longer suffer from catarrh when Peruna is accessible. To my knowledge it has caused relief to so many of my friends and acquaintances, that it is humanity to commend its use to all persons suffering with this distressing disorder of the human system."—Lewis E. Johnson.

Catarrh Poisons.

Catarrh is capable of changing all the life-giving secretions of the body into scalding fluids, which destroy and inflame every part they come in contact with. Applications to the places affected by catarrh can do little good save to soothe or quiet disagreeable symptoms. Hence it is that gargles, sprays, atomizers and inhalants only serve as temporary relief.

There is but one remedy that has the desired effect, and that remedy is Peruna. This remedy strikes at once to the roots of catarrh by restoring to the capillary vessels their healthy elasticity. Peruna is not a temporary palliative, but a radical cure.
